COVER ICON – Saint Artemios the Great Martyr

October 20th

The holy, glorious martyr Artemios came from a noble family and was highly regarded by Emperor Constantine the Great, who promoted him to the rank of Patrician and appointed him Military Governor (dux augustalis) of Alexandria and of all Egypt (c. 330). Despite his high appointment and responsibilities, Artemios did not weaken in his faith or in his zeal to spread the message of salvation in Christ.

Upon the death of Emperor Constantine, his son Constantius inherited all the East and resided in Constantinople (337). He entrusted Artemios with the task of bringing the relics of the Apostle Andrew from Patras in the Peloponnese and the Apostle Luke from Thebes in Boetia to Constantinople, where they were placed in the Church of the Holy Apostles.

When Julian the Apostate came to the throne and sought to restore paganism, he made Antioch his headquarters for carrying on the Persian war, and commanded all provincial Governors to meet him there with their forces. Therefore, Artemios departed Alexandria with his army and went to Antioch. After arriving in the city, he saw Emperor Julian with two priests before him, Evgenios and Makarios, whom he was trying to get to renounce their faith for the senseless cult of his gods. Having bravely confessed their faith in Christ, the Emperor ordered them to be struck five hundred times with rods. Disgusted by what he saw, Artemios went up to the Emperor and denounced his policies as being that of the demons, and the gods he worshiped were nothing but wood or silver and completely lifeless. The Emperor's surprise turned into fury when he learned that this was Artemios the Governor of Egypt, whom he suspected to have been responsible for the death of his brother Gaius Constantine, the Caesar of the East, assassinated on the orders of Emperor Constantius. Thus Artemios was seized and his badges of office were torn off, then he was thrown into prison with the priests Evgenios and Makarios.

The next day, Evgenios and Makarios were exiled to the inhospitable confines of Arabia where, after a while, they were beheaded (Dec. 20). Artemios was brought before the Emperor, who flattered him and offered him a promotion in the empire if he accepted the pagans gods and renounced Christ. Artemios ardently refused, and for this Julian had him tortured in prison, running through his body red-hot skewers. That evening Christ appeared to Artemios and healed his wounds. Strengthened by this vision, Artemios spent fifteen days on his feet, neither eating or drinking, but occupied night and day with prayer and the contemplation of heavenly mysteries.

After this time Julian had Artemios brought before him to put him to death. A large rock, lying near the theater, was split in two; the Saint was laid on one half and the other half was brought down on his body. As the stone fell, everyone could hear his bones break. He was left there till the next day, thinking that he was dead. But when the stone was lifted, the tyrant was astonished to find this broken-boned man, disemboweled and eyeless, scorning idols and glorifying the Cross of Christ. Julian thus ordered his beheading, to the joy of Artemios. A pious noblewoman got possession of the Martyr's body and took it to Constantinople, where for centuries it was fervently venerated by the faithful and wrought miracles without number.

In the seventh century an Anonymous author compiled a number of miracles of Saint Artemios, whose healing activities were predominantly centered in the Church of Saint John the Forerunner in Constantinople and who "specialized" in healing hernias and diseases affecting the genitals of mostly male patients. Below is one example of many:

A certain chief physician, Anthimos by name, had a son about 20 years old whose testicles had become dangerously diseased so that he did not even have the strength to go to the latrines by himself. The father brought him on a litter to the Church of the Forerunner where the much-revered relic of the holy and glorious Artemios now lies, and did whatever all are accustomed to do who are similarly afflicted. Then one night the holy martyr appeared to him in a dream in the semblance of his father Anthimos and said to him: "Let me see what it is that you have." And Anthimos' son, after undressing himself, showed him; once he had done this, Artemios took hold of his testicles and squeezed them forcefully so that he awoke and cried out in pain, still in the grip of the frightening dream. Anxious and worried that the illness was growing worse and after touching the afflicted place, he found himself without pain and his testicles restored to health.

A NOTE FROM PHILOPTOCHOS

Our 2025–26 year is off to a wonderful start! On September 7 we held our Kick-Off Meeting with a great turnout, and we are grateful to all the ladies who attended. Each officer and board member shared highlights of the busy months ahead, and we also celebrated a very successful Fleatique. Stay tuned for details on which month it will return in 2026!

Current Focus:

Right now, our attention is on the

First Responders Appreciation & Luncheon of Thanks on Sunday, November 9. Philoptochos members are responsible for bringing side dishes, desserts, and drinks for this potluck meal. A sign-up sheet will be shared soon so everyone can contribute.

At the same time, we are launching three meaningful initiatives:

1. Trauma Teddys – We are collecting new or gently used stuffed animals for Resilience Neighborhood Initiatives. These are given to children during emergency calls to provide comfort and love in moments of crisis.
2. Hygiene Supplies Drive – What began as a collection of feminine products has grown into an ongoing donation effort for two local high schools. We now accept all hygiene items for young women and men: soaps, lotions, toothbrushes, toothpaste, lipsticks, combs, and other items that bring dignity and confidence. When you shop for yourself, consider adding one item for a student in need.
3. Birthday Kits – We are assembling small kits for our local food pantry so anyone can celebrate a special day with joy. Each kit includes a cake mix, frosting, an aluminum pan, and a can of Sprite.

Looking Ahead:

- Christmas Card Fundraiser – Sign-ups will be open October 19 through November 16. Stop in the hall after Liturgy or sign up online.
- Philoptochos Membership Forms – Please remember to fill out your membership form and return it to Olympia.
- Icon Painting Evening – We are exploring an evening class where an instructor will teach us how to paint an icon in a manageable format. We need a small committee to help coordinate the date, sign-ups, and setup/cleanup.
- Sister Chapter Gathering – We would like to invite Philoptochos sisters from nearby parishes (Ypapanti, St. Nicholas Pittsburgh, Annunciation McKeesport) for fellowship and collaboration. A chairperson is needed to help plan the event, coordinate RSVPs, and shape the program.
- Women's Day Event in March – For the first time, we are considering hosting an International Women's Day celebration for all women GOYA-age and older. The event could feature a parish panel of women sharing their experiences. If you'd like to help organize or be a featured speaker, let us know!

How You Can Help:

Our chapter thrives on the ideas, talents, and time of its members. If one of these initiatives or events sparks your interest, please reach out to Kay Doas or Olympia Arthur. Your voice and your hands make our chapter strong, joyful, and impactful

SUNDAY SCHOOL UPDATE

Sunday School is back in full swing! We currently have four classes with students ranging from 1-18 years old! Our youngest learners are taught by Allison Flynn and Stefanie Todd. Our children K-3 are taught by Presv. Maria Gavrilos and Lauren Michaels. Zoe Thompson and Nancy Ioannou are teaching our students in Grades 4-7 and our 8-12th graders are taught by Milt Constantine and Christina Contes. We begin each lesson with a hymn directed by Presv. Maria. We are looking forward to many exciting service projects including a coat, hat and glove drive as well as a food drive during Lent. If you would like to join the Sunday School mailing list, please email Christinacontes@gmail.com.

FESTIVAL UPDATE

Festival 2025

This year's festival was our 2nd best Festival ever, only behind last year's record setting year. Rain impacted us on both Friday and Saturday, and all areas were down year over year with the exception of the Foodline and Ice Cream. The increases in food prepared helped us in the food line to set a new record. Since we prepared extra food and pastry and not everything was sold, we donated almost $4,000 worth of food, including about 450 dinners, to local organizations that provide meals to those in need.

$441,009	Food & Beverage Income
$ 28,297	Other Income (Sponsor Program & Book Store)
$469,306	Total Income
$150,507	Food & Beverage Expense
$ 64,677	Set-up/Clean-up Expense
$ 33,262	General & Admin Expense
$248,445	Total Expenses
$220,861	TOTAL PROFIT
